A year of many changes...

Rebuilding Together Montgomery County (RTMC) certainly has had a year of change. In December, Melissa Flynn, who had served as Executive Director for nine years, left to work in RT's national office.

Susan Hawfield, RTMC's Director of Program Services for over three years, assumed the position of Executive Director. Lee Sutherland concluded his term as Board President.

But RTMC's changes did not stop there. Scot Weeks joined us in October as Construction Supervisor. Scot brings an expertise in job and home safety and extensive knowledge in home repair and renovations.

Angela Modrick, a loyal volunteer, became our Office Administrator, and Lee Berkeley Shaw started in March as our Director of Development. Lee Berkeley had previously worked for RT's national office heading their Home Modifications and Home Energy Initiatives.

We are very fortunate to work with a dedicated board, staff and over 2,000 volunteers who understand the importance of keeping low-income homeowners safely in their homes. The need is great and growing every year.

FY2007 was the first year that we were recipients of a grant from the Housing Initiative Fund through the Montgomery County Department of Housing and Community Affairs. As we increase staff, expand our funding base, and develop new partnerships, we are able to better fulfill the important work of our mission.

We are grateful for the board's leadership, the commitment of all those who participate, and the continuing legacy of our work. In a year of change, thank you for your continuing support. Together, we are making a difference!

OUR PROGRAMS

RTMC has an important role in the life of our county

Why does our program exist?

RTMC exists to keep low-income families living safely and independently in their own homes, while also preserving the scarce affordable housing stock in Montgomery County.

The families served through RTMC have worked hard to own their own homes but need assistance to maintain them.

Average recipients are a family of two living on just over $18,000 a year. Once the costs of transportation, food, and medical expenses are covered, there simply isn't anything left for home maintenance. Often the home is their only asset, and without RTMC and its team of volunteers to help with maintenance, these homeowners would be in danger of losing their home and/or remaining in a hazardous situation.

2007 Homeowner Profile
Elderly	56%
Disabled	50%
Families with young children, no disabilities	9%
Average household income	$18,608
Average number of people residing in home	2.2
Average number of years living in the home	25 years

The work we provide comes in many forms: preventing falls by installing grab bars and handrails so seniors can age-in-place in the home where they raised their families; patching a leaking roof and removing debris so that parents can raise healthy children; building a wheelchair ramp or installing a roll-in shower for those with a disability so they can remain independently in their homes. Life can change in the blink of an eye — for our recipients, RTMC is there to assist when the home can no longer meet their changing needs.

What have we accomplished?

Since 1990, RTMC has completed repairs on 1,240 homes and nonprofits using the help of 35,495 volunteers and delivered more than $10.75 million in home repairs, all of which is done at no cost to the homeowners we serve.

More importantly, however, there is a person — in most cases, a family — behind each statistic. For RTMC recipients who often find it difficult to ask for help, the rewards of this program can be life-changing.

How do we help people in our community?

Although you may not see it, there are people in your neighborhood who need our services. Many of the recipients of RTMC's services are invisible. Through disability, frailty, or depression, they have withdrawn from their community, and in many cases, may be literally trapped within their homes. The modifications provided by RTMC often allow them basic freedom, for example by providing a ramp so they can more easily exit their home.

Many seniors live alone, and worries about their safety are justifiable. Falls are the leading cause of injury-related deaths in seniors, and 55% of falls for seniors happen in the home. By making safety modifications to prevent falls, RTMC allows our seniors to remain independently within their homes. The average direct cost for a senior fall is $9,400 in medical expenses — for low-income families, that is often paid for by the community. Preventing these falls reduces the taxpayer costs associated with treating them.

Finally, there is a cost benefit for all in this kind of work. As the property value of the home in question increases, everyone benefits. As the home in question is more attractive and safe, all the residents in that neighborhood benefit.

Other RTMC Programs

In addition to April Project Days, RTMC offers other programs that provide helpful services to county homeowners. The Handyman program provides emergency and minor repairs for eligible homeowners on a year round basis. RTMC partners with a local group, Hearts and Hands, who coordinate a Saturday project every month. Through the Link program, RTMC refers homeowners to other community resources which may help them.

The project summaries that follow describe just a few of the projects RTMC accomplished this year.

Accessibility Modifications

In November 2006, Countrywide and RTMC’s Board of Directors worked to provide accessibility modifications for a homeowner who had suffered multiple trauma fractures and a head injury that left him with hearing loss and nerve damage. The injuries resulted from a fall he sustained dropping from a fifteen foot ladder two years earlier. The homeowner had been confined to a hospital bed in his living room with access only to a half-bath on the main floor. Unable to negotiate steps, he could not take a shower in the main bath on the upper level.

At the completion of the work weekend, our volunteers had converted the half-bath on the main floor to a full bath with a handheld showerhead, shower bench, raised toilet, and grab bars. Volunteers fixed shutoff valves under the bathroom sink, installed a fire extinguisher and GFCI outlets, a handrail, and made step and drywall repairs. Insulation blown in the attic improved the energy efficiency of the home. These modifications met an important basic need for this homeowner and resulted in a much enhanced quality of life.

Critical Home Repairs

A homeowner who had suffered extensive damage to her house as the result of a fire came to RTMC seeking help. Most of the damage had been caused by smoke and the water used to fight the fire.

St. Mark's United Methodist Church and Oakdale Emory United Methodist Church collaborated to help the family. They enlisted the help of many other suppliers who donated valuable materials. At least $80,000 worth of work was accomplished with about $5,000 in cash. This is just one illustration of the leveraging capabilities RTMC employs to stretch donated dollars.

The home received a redesigned kitchen with new appliances and a bath complete with new tile and fixtures. Workers replaced drywall, rewired the house, reinsulated the attic and walls, replaced all windows and doors, painted, and secured furniture donations. Before and after photos of this project appear on the back cover of this report.

Assisting Other Nonprofits

RTMC teamed up with Helping Hands to work on the grounds of Camp Friendship in Laytonsville. Camp Friendship is a summer camp for children who have been diagnosed with cancer. The camp needed to replace a 3,000 square foot deck around their pool. House captain Chris Giarrantano, with the help of Rich Cortese from TW Perry, secured Trex composite decking material at a greatly reduced price from Trex representative George Zarick.

Chris coordinated volunteers for four weekends to complete the work. The children now have a new deck around their pool where they can play and socialize. The donation allowed Camp Friendship to free up funds for programming for the children, who gain so much from this wonderful summer camp experience.

House captain Chris Giarrantano installs Trex decking at the Camp Friendship campgrounds in Laytonsville.

Heroes at Home

Sears Holdings, a new sponsor for RT National, established a veterans initiative called “Heroes at Home”, and RTMC was asked to take charge of the kick-off project for this new partnership. U.S. Army Specialist Ryan Major, 22, was selected as the first recipient.

While serving his country in Iraq, Ryan was injured in November 2006 when an improvised explosive device exploded near his squad. Ryan lost both legs along with other injuries that require extensive and continuing surgeries.

NARI (National Association of the Remodeling Industry) members and Adventist HealthCare, with Sears Holdings, partnered with RTMC to make the many modifications needed to bring Ryan home. This project demonstrates the potential power of collaboration between corporations and non-profits.

Volunteers installed an elevator, created a fully accessible bathroom, widened doorways, and converted a den into a bedroom featuring a second egress to an expanded deck that is accessible for Ryan’s wheelchair.

RTMC recognizes the importance of making sure our heroes and their families live in safe, warm and accessible homes. We thank Specialist Ryan Major for his service and sacrifice.

SPECIAL EVENTS

8th Annual TW Perry Golf Classic

On October 15, 2006, more than 100 golfers participated in the Annual TW Perry Golf Classic which successfully raised over $94,000 for RTMC. The tournament was held for the first time at the beautiful Norbeck Country Club in Rockville.

Outback Steakhouse-Germantown donated lunch, and EYA, George Mason Mortgage, Monument Bank, and Natelli Homes were beverage cart sponsors. CPE provided an excellent dinner and open cocktail bar.

Good Luck, Melissa

In December 2006, Melissa Flynn, who had energetically served as Executive Director of RTMC for nine years, accepted a new opportunity in Rebuilding Together's national RTMC founders Jay Treadwell (left) and Gordon Hawk present Melissa Flynn with an award for her years of service to the organization.

RTMC continues to feel privileged to have a community friend like TW Perry. Over the last eight years, TW Perry has helped to raise over $700,000 through this tournament alone to help RTMC provide quality services to our families in need.

TW Perry also helps to foster the community relationships needed to build our program's success. We thank TW Perry and all the sponsors who participated in this event.

office as Vice President of Affiliate Relations. She will work with 235 RT affiliates throughout the country and bring her expertise to a network that serves 1,880 communities.

While sad that she left us, RTMC is excited about what Melissa brings to our organization nationally and is delighted to have the privilege of continuing to work with her.

RTMC Honors Alan Richardson

Congressman Chris Van Hollen, County Councilmember Nancy Floreen, and other distinguished guests joined the RTMC board and staff at the Congressional Country Club in Rockville on March 15, 2007, to pay tribute to Alan Richardson, President of Potomac Valley Brick (PVB), for his continued philanthropic efforts and support of RTMC.

Nancy Floreen applauded Alan Richardson for his tireless work on behalf of RTMC. Congressman Van Hollen emphasized the importance of leaders like Alan Richardson who make it possible for nonprofits to meet the needs of the families they serve. He presented Alan with a letter of recognition from U.S. Senator Ben Cardin.

Alan thanked his committed team at PVB and stated that he found giving back to the community to be both a responsibility and a privilege. RTMC thanks Alan Richardson again for his continuing support to RTMC and the community.

OBA Golf Tournament

RTMC was pleased to once again be the beneficiary of the proceeds from OBA Bank's Annual Golf Tournament in May 2007. Now in its seventh year, this tournament, held at the Little Bennett Golf Course in Clarksburg, is a fun-filled day of golf, games, and prizes, as well as a live auction. Through the generous support of OBA Bank, all of the tournament sponsors, and the employees who raised funds in support of the tournament, RTMC received $22,000 from this exciting event to work toward our goal of achieving a safe and healthy home for every family. RTMC thanks OBA and the sponsors who made this event possible.

We need your support!

Our program helps communities stay strong, and with our many hands, we are helping a segment of our population which is often invisible.

RTMC relies on support from the community to accomplish our goals. Local businesses, civic and religious groups, and foundations support much of our work, but it really is a community effort, and individual giving is important. Individual giving allows RTMC to target areas most in need and focus on them without restriction. We see your support as a mandate for this work, and we are happy to provide it for all who care about Montgomery County's low-income families.

We promise to use your donation wisely!

RTMC is a cost effective way to provide home repair services to those who need them. For every dollar donated, we are able to leverage the donation seven times. We do this by securing donated or discounted products and recruiting donations of skilled and unskilled labor. Our overhead expenses are low, only 10% of our total budget. We adhere to strict guidelines from our funders and take financial accountability seriously.

The heart behind RTMC is our volunteer corps. Most volunteers come through house sponsor groups that adopt a home and engage a team of members/employees to get the work done. If your company or group is interested in sponsoring a house, please contact us.

We encourage you to get involved!

Executive Director Susan Hawfield, Congressman Albert R. Wynn, Andy Shulman of RTMC's Corporate Advisory Board, and Lars Peterson from RT National inspect a house on Project Day.

WAYS TO GIVE

RTMC is a registered 501 (c)(3) not-for-profit organization, and all donations are tax-deductible provided that no goods or services are received in exchange for the donation. Some of the ways to contribute include:

Volunteering

Volunteers over the age of 14 provide the labor for our projects throughout the year. We particularly need professionals in the skilled trades such as electricians, plumbers, roofers, and heating contractors. We also seek help in fundraising, special events, and committee service. Call the office if you are interested, or sign up for our e-newsletter by emailing:

shawfield@rebuildingtogethermc.org

Cash gifts

This is the easiest way to contribute to the success of RTMC. Enclosed is a reply envelope: join us in helping create a safe and healthy home for every family!

Online Giving

Rebuilding Together can accept donations via our website

www.rebuildingtogethermc.org

Online Shopping

If you use the internet for travel or shopping, consider making your purchases through a site that donates a portion of the proceeds to RTMC.

Travel

www.ytbtravel.com/rebuildingtogether

Shopping

Workplace Giving

Many companies provide the opportunity for employees to donate via either the Combined Federal Campaign (CFC) or through the United Way. RTMC is a registered agency for both means: our new CFC number is 34462 and our United Way agency number is 8076.

Employer Matching Funds

Many employers provide matching funds for individual charitable contributions.

Check with your human resources department (or foundation if applicable) for the appropriate forms.

Donating Stock

The tax advantage of donating appreciated stock can benefit both the organization and the donor. By lowering your capital gains tax liability, you can save and give simultaneously!

Planned Giving

By remembering RTMC in your will, you insure a legacy beyond your lifetime. Gifts can be made through a bequest, through appreciated property such as real estate or securities, or by naming RTMC as a beneficiary in your life insurance policy. Please contact our office for more information on planned giving.

Wishlist Items

Truck

RTMC has a trailer that is hauled to many job sites, often in a single day. At present, only one employee has a vehicle that can pull the trailer, which places strain on his personal vehicle. We would appreciate donation of a company truck. Please contact the office for truck and hauling specifications.

Warehouse space

RTMC would be better able to handle in-kind donations if we had the space to store these materials. Our current budget does not allow for renting such a space. We would consider the donation of storage space around the Kensington area a significant help in the growth of our program.
